NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS

Monday night—Viola Allen.
Tuesday night—"Miss Bob White."
Thursday night—"The First Lieutenant."
Friday night—"Babes in Toyland."
Saturday night—"The Midnight Express."

Next week will be a great week for The Kentucky. Never before have so many high-class attractions come to Paducah in one week as come next week and theater-goers will have a feast of good things. With Miss Viola Allen, "Miss Bob White," "The Babes in Toyland," Mr. English is offering his patrons some of the best attractions on the road.

What should prove a most delightful entertainment is the appearance Monday night of Viola Allen in "The Winter's Tale." Miss Allen has enjoyed an extraordinary personal success and an enormous prosperity since becoming a star. Her productions and companies have been of the very best quality, and her good fortune in the selection of plays has been one of the wonders of the time. During the past six seasons she has produced six plays, three modern and two classic dramas. The first of these were "The Christian," "In the Palace of the King," in which Paducah saw her two years ago, and "The Eternal City," and the latter Shakespeare's comedies, "Twelfth Night" and "The Winter's Tale." That Miss Allen has been able to popularize the classics in the way she has, speaks volumes for her sterling worth as an actress, since it has been only upon rare occasions that the public has taken an interest in the classics at all commensurate with their worth.

Her engagement in Paducah will be one of the events of this season.

Mae Phelps, Prima Donna, with the Nixon & Zimmerman Opera Company, Presenting Miss Bob White.

When here two years ago she made a very favorable impression and local theater-goers are anxious to see her in a Shakespearean production and therefore she should be greeted by a good house Monday evening.

The unique sensation of witnessing the tremendous crash between two monster locomotives is similar to the effect produced by the fifty-foot train of engine and cars which plays a very important part in "The Midnight Express," coming to the Kentucky Saturday.

"Miss Bob White," with a large cast of orchestra, will be at The Kentucky Tuesday night. The cast contains many well known names, chief among them are Frank Deshon, J. L. McClure, Edward Baker, Donald Archer, Rye V. Molshaw, Joseph Leighton, Edward Tannehill, Mae Phelps, Alice Craft Bonson, Zillah Harris, Harriot Trainor, Georgia Campbell, Susie Talmage and it is one of the few musical attractions that attracts true lovers of comic opera for the reason that it has a charming story complete and is not a succession of interpolations and specialties for this reason it appeals to lovers of genuine comic opera. It has many pretty airs. Its comedy is unusually strong and from the time the comedians are on the stage their efforts are conducive of laughter and applause. This is the fifth year for "Miss Bob White," but its popularity is still just as great as ever and the business that it does everywhere indicates that intrinsic merit made its popularity lasting.

Commenting on "Babes in Toyland," which will be here Friday night, the Scranton Truth says in part: "No more dainty or delightful entertainment has been seen at the Lyceum for many a long day than the 'Babes in Toyland,' which was given before large audiences yesterday afternoon and last night.

"The book, done by Glen McDonough, was inspired by the nursery rhymes, so dear to the hearts of everybody, and the music was contributed by the capable Victor Herbert, who has done the best work of a career that has been heretofore not lacking in brilliancy.

"The company was one of real merit and included 'Little Chip'."

MARY MARBLE.
"Babes in Toyland."

Mary Marble and a number of others almost equally clever. The staging and costumes were in themselves a distinct and pleasing feature of the performance."

GOOD SPIRITS.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass state could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred and one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles 75c. For sale by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

New Castle, Ind., July 23, 1903.

Pepsin Syrup Co., Monticello, Ill.

Gentlemen:—Last summer I was all run down from the ravages of asthma. My digestion was just about as bad as it could be, to digest at all, and in fact I was in such a condition that I was compelled to secure leave of absence from duty for two months, and "doctor up" and rest for a while. One of our passenger conductors spoke in glowing terms to me of your Syrup Pepsin. More to satisfy my folks than through any faith in the medicine, I agreed to try it.

I secured three bottles and took it according to directions faithfully. The result amazed me, as well as my local physician who seemingly had been unable to afford me any relief from the bloating after meals, terrible taste in my mouth almost constantly, and constant constipation. In ten days time I began to eat food that I had been "scared of" for ten months; the bloating and labored breathing after meals began to subside and my sleep began to benefit me. I kept right on with the Pepsin and in six weeks time I ate whatever I craved and when I felt like it.

I keep a bottle in my house constantly and whenever I need it I take it, and I find prompt relief from the maladies it is made to cure.

Any letters of inquiry from sufferers from indigestion or bowel trouble will be cheerfully and promptly answered. Yours very truly,

F. T. A. "Big Four Route." M. A. MORELAND.

December!—Smiling,
We yield to thee;
With hours beguiling
Thy sway shall be

Complete. Come, whiten
Thy fir-trimmed ways!
With sleigh-bells brighten
Thy frost-touched days.

May all thy mornings
With brightness break;
With glad adornings

Here's ruddy embers,
At close of day,
Here's blithe December
To make us gay.

—TOM MASSON.

The Play's the Thing.

Society interest for the coming week centers in the pretty military opera, "The First Lieutenant," to be given at the Kentucky on Thursday evening for the benefit of the Home of the Friendless. Some of the finest musical and dramatic talent in the city will appear that night and add inspiration to the opera's catchy tunes and clever scenes.

The opera is distinctly a modern one, aglow with patriotism. The time is the Spanish-American war, and Richmond, Va., and Tampa, Fla., are the setting. The "first families of Virginia, sah," Chicago newspaper correspondents, "Rough Riders," and Uncle Sam's navy meet in delightful mingling, while Spanish señoritas and dark-browed dons add a vivid touch of color. All these—and more—are cleverly cast and the whole makes an evening of keen pleasure and interest.

Several box parties are being arranged for the event and a representative and appreciative audience will greet the raising of the curtain on Thursday night.

A December Wedding.

The wedding bans of Miss Katherine M. Holliday and Mr. Ivo Pettit will be published Sunday at 10 o'clock mass at the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church. The marriage will take place on December 20th at 3:30 p. m., at the parsonage of the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church. Rev. Father H. W. Jansen will perform the ceremony. The attendants will be Miss Orlean Thurman and Mr. George Holliday. The bride will wear embroidered French net over white tulle and will carry lilies of the valley. Miss Thurman will wear white mull over silk.

No invitations will be sent in the city, only relatives and a few intimate friends will witness the ceremony.

Miss Holliday is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holliday, of South Sixth street. She is pretty and attractive and is a graduate of the 1904 class of the Paducah High school. Mr. Pettit is a popular young man, connected with the Southern Express company as cashier. Both are young people with a large circle of friends.

After a bridal tour the couple will reside for a time at the Holliday home on South Sixth street.

Magazine Club.

An especially pleasant meeting of the Magazine club was held on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. George Flournoy as the hostess. The quotations were from Sidney Lanier and Miss Dow Husbands gave an interesting "Sketch of Sidney Lanier," of whom it has been beautifully said that "no mantle of charity ever had to be thrown over anything in Lanier's life or art." The Outlook was represented by Miss Martha Leech with an account of "Queen Alexandra." "Unhappy Loves of Genius," was the subject handled by Mrs. Bransford Clarke. From Hubbard's Little Journeys, Mrs. W. A. Gardner told of a "Journey to the Home of Herbert Spencer." Miss Helen Lowry on The North American newspaper correspondents, "Rough Riders," and Uncle Sam's navy meet in delightful mingling, while Spanish señoritas and dark-browed dons add a vivid touch of color. All these—and more—are cleverly cast and the whole makes an evening of keen pleasure and interest.

Several box parties are being arranged for the event and a representative and appreciative audience will greet the raising of the curtain on Thursday night.

Pretty Birthday Party.

Little Miss Jeannette Rittoff celebrated her tenth birthday with a pretty party on Monday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Rittoff, of South Fourth street. The house was profusely decorated with palms, ferns and roses, and with the happy children, made a most attractive picture. About twenty-five young guests were present and the hours from 7 to 10 passed most happily. An elegant luncheon was served at 9:30 during which there was excellent music by a string band. Those present were:

Misses Henrietta Kahn, Stella Cohn, Violet Michael, Jennie Michael, Annie Marks, Fannie Klein, Fannie Marcoffsky, Clara Mayers, Nellie Mayers, Iva Berry, Annie Simon, Ruth Sauerberg, Garnett Bailey, Emma Nickels, Lillie Helvig, Madge Greif, Johnnie Alexander, Oma Tyree, Lou Anna Gidian, Helen Hamilton, Josie Waynich, Lula Friant, Fanny Rittoff, Frances Brooks, Reada Brooks.

D. A. R. Meeting.

The Paducah chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. David G. Murrell. The members responded to roll-call with patriotic quotations. It was the regular December meeting with the annual election of officers as a chief feature. Mrs. Hubbard S. Wells was re-elected regent. Mrs. M. B. Nash was made vice-regent; Mrs. L. S. DuBois, registrar; Mrs. Fannie Allard, treasurer; Miss Emily Morrow, secretary; Mrs. D. G. Murrell, historian and Mrs. Sallie Morrow, chaplain. A special compliment was paid Miss Emily Morrow by re-electing her secretary for life. She has proved so capable that the two-years time limit for all officers of the local chapter was removed in her case.

Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Susan Bennett, of Smithland, a "real daughter" of the Revolution, and a member of the Paducah chapter, were adopted.

Mrs. Murrell served delightful refreshments during the afternoon.

The T. O. Club.

The T. O. club was elegantly entertained by Mrs. C. E. Gridley at her home on North Sixth street on Wednesday afternoon. The house was attractively decorated and cards were played. Mrs. Frank Wahl won the first prize, a solid silver ladle. Mrs. Gus Wright captured the second prize, cut glass pepper and salt. The consolation prize, a Japanese pin tray went to Mrs. Charles T. Graham. An elaborate course-luncheon was served after the game.

The guests were Mesdames Gus Wright, Will Katterjohn, P. F. Lally, Charles T. Graham, Will Gilbert, Frank Wahl, J. W. Sherrill, Frank Effinger, F. G. Mertz, E. W. Bockmon, Addie Hans, and Miss Mildred Maxwell.

West End Club.

The West End club was entertained by Mrs. Muscoe Burnett, of West Broadway, on Wednesday afternoon. It was the first meeting of the club for the season and was a most pleasant occasion. Beside the club members there were a few outside guests. The game prize was won by Mrs. Jno. W. Keller, and the lone hand prize went to Mrs. Armour Gardner. A delightful luncheon was served during the afternoon.

The guests were: Mrs. Harrison Watts, of Charlotte, N. C.; Mesdames Campbell Flournoy, John W. Keller, Armour Gardner, George Thompson, Milton Cope, C. H. Sherrill, L. A. Washington, Birdie Campbell, Henry Hughes, I. D. Wilcox, Thomas C. Leech; Misses Elise Wright, of Urbana, Ohio; Frances Gould, Cherie Morton, Martha Leech.

Entre Nous Club.

Miss Ethel Brooks entertained very charmingly in honor of the Entre Nous club at her home on North Seventh street on Thursday afternoon. Pretty souvenirs of the occasion were presented each guest. An elaborate luncheon was delightfully served during the afternoon. There were a number of guests besides the club members, and those present were: Mesdames Will Minich, Allen Ashcraft; Misses Elizabeth Sinnott, Hallie Hisey, Ethel Morrow, Susie Jorgenson, Mabel McNichol, Manie Cobb, Elsie Bagby, Marjorie Bagby, Bruce Wearen, Fannie and Rella Coleman, Monima Hopkins, Lillie Mae Winstead, Beulah Rogers, Nell Holland, Helen Decker, Robbie Lovell, May Owen, Retta Hatfield.

Sans Souci Club.

Mrs. Allen Ashcraft was hostess to the Sans Souci club on Wednesday afternoon, entertaining very delightfully at cards at her home on West Broadway. Only the club members were present and the prize was captured by Mrs. Will Gilbert. A pretty course-luncheon was served after the game.

The guests were: Mesdames John W. Scott, Harris Rankin, Will Gilbert; Misses Margaret Park, Clara Park, Caroline Sowell, Clara Thompson, Hattie Terrell, Minnie Terrell, Faith Langstaff, Ethel Morrow, Susanne Jorgenson, Myrtle Greer, Hallie Hisey, Florence Yeiser, Mabel Weakes.

Follencela Club.

Mrs. H. W. Hills entertained the Follencela club and guests most pleasantly on Tuesday afternoon at her home on South Sixth street. A conundrum guessing contest was an enjoyable feature. Mrs. Charles Ab-

The receiving party was quite a large one and the costumes were striking and beautiful.

The Delphic club held its regular weekly meeting at the club room in the Carnegie library on Tuesday morning. "Paris in the Time of the Valois," was forcefully discussed by Miss Helen Lowry. It was a most interesting and pleasant meeting of the Delphic's present "little journeys" among French scenes, life and characters.

TELL YOUR NEIGHBOR ABOUT WINE OF CARDUI

Hundreds of thousands of women suffer with irregular periods. Thousands suffer bearing down pains. Others are nervous and have all manner of pains in the abdomen, back, neck, limbs and head. WINE OF CARDUI CURES ALL THESE TROUBLES. There is hardly a home where some woman is not the victim of female weakness in some form. In your home there is a sufferer. There is another in your neighbor's home. Wine of Cardui will cure you, your sister, your mother or your daughter. It will cure your neighbor.

Over 1,500,000 suffering women have been cured by Wine of Cardui. Hundreds of thousands of well and happy women have their health because some interested friend took them a bottle of Wine of Cardui or told about what this wonderful woman's tonic would do. Will you not follow Mrs. Smithers' example by giving Wine of Cardui a trial and then tell other sufferers of your cure?

1603 Maple St., LOUISVILLE, KY., June 20, 1904.

I feel it my duty to thank you for the good Wine of Cardui has done for me. I was nervous, worn-out and on the verge of a general break-down. Providence directed one of your little books my way and I bought a bottle of Wine of Cardui. I had taken it but three days when a decided change was perceptible. What it did for me it will do for any other woman, and I never fail to take advantage of an opportunity to recommend it as a reliable and sure cure.

People who have an interest in building up the city should urge the general council to pass Alderman Davis' ordinance compelling property owners to connect with the sanitary sewerage.Memphis was a very unhealthy city for many years and had yellow fever, typhoid fever and malaria, and other ills, but since the sanitary sewerage was built it has become one of the cleanest and most healthy cities in the country, and the doctors ascribe it to the sewerage. Paducah's sewerage system is constructed on the same plan as that of Memphis and would result in like benefits if used by all in the sewer district.Louisville attempted to vote over a million dollars at the last election for sewerage, although already well equipped with it, showing how essential sewerage is considered to the growth and health of a city. If sewerage is worth building it is worth

said before he left that he wanted to take his family "where there were not so many doctors, palatial drug stores, and new graveyards necessary." He said they were bad signs, and he will doubtless tell the same thing some where else, which will not be much to the city's advantage.The best thing to do is to clean up the city and perfect sanitation. It will result in benefits soon and easily perceived.In this connection, part of a letter written to the Louisville Courier-Journal by a Paducahan signing himself "Jas. Soler," may be taken as an evidence of how people who have not lived here always, and are not accustomed to the filth, regard the uncleanliness. The letter was printed in the Courier-Journal's editorial column Thursday morning, and is given a publicity that will not help Paducah any. The only way to prevent the injury resulting from such a reputation, however, is to eliminate the cause.The part of the letter referring to Paducah is: "I am a Cuban, of course you know it by now, and lived in this country for the past ten years

having seen a great deal of north, south, east and west, and as far as my experience recollect, I have not got the pleasure of visiting a city large or small, as clean as Habana or Mantanzas in the Island of Cuba.
There is much talk about Santiago de Cuba, a city about the size of Paducah; now, Mr. Editor, would you think a moment when I tell you that I would forfeit my life in asserting that Santiago in Cuba, is much more cleaner than Paducah in the United States, Paducah having the advantage or disfranchising peace and prosperity, while Santiago was a mass of ruin and devastation! Mr. Editor, I know that these few lines will not be published by you, but I feel deep in my heart that the Christian Commandment "look upon others as you would to yourself," will be recalled to
you. Yours respectfully,

JAS. SOLER.

This is indeed a severe indictment,
and yet who can say it is not fully justified?The reason Havana and other Cuban cities, only a few years ago the filthiest in the world, are now so healthy is that the United States government, while in charge of them, made them clean and sanitary. The United States government unfortunately has nothing to do with regulating sanitation in Paducah, and those who have seem to take no interest in it.The people should awake to the importance of a clean, sanitary city, and demand it of the officials whose duty it is to provide it.The Owensboro Inquirer, independent, which was against President Roosevelt, says: "The attack of Gov. Vardaman on the president has set the people of the south to thinking and many of them have come to the conclusion that they have been wronged in listening to the viperous little stump speakers of the Vardaman class. They are beginning to think the matter over and are coming to the conclusion that Roosevelt is a better man by far than any of his traducers, a broad-minded, fearless, thorough-going American. They will soon be following him with enthusiasm, very much to their credit."All spring, summer and fall the "city fathers" dawdled along without letting the contract for improving Second street. The people urged and advised and the press importuned and censured, but the pretty weather was allowed to drift away until now when bad weather is about to set in, and the Christmas trade is ready to begin, Second street is to be torn up and ruin the trade

PHONE 63of the merchants along the block from Broadway to Kentucky. This should not be, and if there is no way to prevent it, it is very unfortunate for the merchants. It is about all that could be expected considering the way every other class of public business has been transacted in Paducah for several years past. It is only the administration's way of doing things.Secretary of the National Democratic Committee Woodson has successfully recovered to break the painful silence and tell how it happened.
He now says that "the nomination of Parker for the presidency was the most stupendous mistake the Democratic party has made since 1872." Yet one would not have judged it so to read Mr. Woodson's papers and see his absurdly extravagant predictions.
The nomination of Parker was undoubtedly a mistake, but the nomination of anyone by the Democrats is a mistake so far as the voters of the United States are concerned.Gov. Vardaman continues to get it in the neck on all sides. The Courier-Journal, usually for anything that insults the president, says: "The spontaneous protests against honoring Gov. Vardaman, of Mississippi, with the chairmanship of the National Cotton convention, which meets shortly at Shreveport, La., are timely. Thus to honor him would lend color to the assumption that he is representative of the southern people, instead of merely his own insanity."It is denied that Democracy is dead. Perhaps it isn't, but it might as well be. The Democratic party, or some aggregation by that name, will probably have out tickets in presidential elections for many years to come, for to perpetuate the party means money to those who do it, although they may get no offices. So far as ever winning an election, however, the Democratic party is dead.Even gentle, genial Ollie James is rubbing it in on Judge Parker.
Here is what a Washington correspondent quotes him as saying: "I don't know whether the Roosevelt majority is sane or not, it is surely safe and appears to be irrevocably established."

CRIMINAL TERM BEGINS MONDAY

Many Cases on the Docket in

A Small Police Court Docket.

MRS. TORIAN'S WILL FILED

CIRCUIT COURT.

The November civil term of circuit court ended this morning and Monday
the regular December criminal term will begin.The November term of court should have ended last Saturday, but in order to finish the work of the present term and clear the docket of several minor cases, Judge Reed extended the term one week, bringing it right up to the criminal term.Today's business in court amounted to but little.A judgment for sale was filed in the case of G. D. Palmer against Gerude Palmer.All officials and the special judges in the several actions were given their allowances.The case of J. W. Riglesberger & Brother against the I. C., suit over the value of a lost car load of lumber, was by agreement docketed and dismissed.In the case of Emma Perpoli, administratrix, against the I. C., a judgment for Taylor & Lucas for $250 was filed. It seems that the I. C. settled with the plaintiff without the aid of the attorneys employed by the administratrix and Taylor & Lucas had to file suit for their fees. They sued for $500 as a fee, but the court allowed them but half. The railroad compromised for $500 with the administratrix.The motions for new trials in the cases of W. J. Bugz against E. D. Holt and Mary Coley against the I. C. railroad, were continued until next term.The motion for a new trial in the case of Rudolph, administrator of Hollice against the I. C., was continued until next term.Alice George was granted a divorce from Steve George.Ruth Loftin was granted a divorce from Clay Loftin.

NO TIME SET

The K. I. T. Meeting Will Probably be Next Sunday.

Two Important Changes Are Proposed in the League Rules.

Nothing definite has been done in regard to a meeting of the K. I. T. league officials and stockholders, but it is stated today that the meeting will probably be held a week from tomorrow. Neither the time nor the place has been decided on definitely, but it is likely next Sunday, the 11th, will be the date, and Paducah will be the place.

There is at present, it is claimed, no one with authority to call a meeting, and the meeting will be held by mutual agreement.

The only meeting provided for any way soon is the regular meeting in January.

Several important questions are to be decided at this meeting. One of them is regarding percentage. It is likely that a new rule will be adopted which will give every city the benefit of its own baseball patronage, something not done heretofore in the K. I. T. league. Thus, when one club goes away from home it knows exactly how much it is going to get, instead of getting a percentage. Some of the K. I. T. clubs have gone around the circuit and made big money, but when they get home they take in very little and the visiting club gets hardly enough to pay hotel bills. If the new rule is adopted, which it is believed will be done, it will give every city all of the proceeds of its games except the regular amount guaranteed every club in every town while away from home.

It is also likely that the guarantee to be deposited at the beginning of the season will be $500, $200, the present amount, is not enough, and $500 will better guarantee the success of the league. It is hoped the coming season to have only clubs that can sustain themselves, and rules looking to this end will probably be adopted.

Constable Shelton's Certificate Came Back.

Taken Away Election Day But Did Not Prevent the Official's Voting.

Constable A. C. Shelton yesterday morning found his registration certificate which was stolen from the office of Dr. J. S. Troutman on election day, and does not know whether the certificate was taken as a joke or to prevent his voting.

Constable Shelton left his certificate in the office of Dr. Troutman for safe keeping, thinking he might lose it if he carried it about with his other papers, and on election morning telephoned Dr. Troutman that he would be in after the certificate. Dr. Troutman was busy that day and directed the constable to look on his desk, where he would lay the certificate, as he would likely not be in the office.

Dr. Troutman then placed the certificate on the desk and weighted it down with a paper weight. Shelton arrived soon after and found no certificate. He caught Dr. Troutman over the phone and informed him of the fact and the physician advised him to make affidavit and secure another as some one had evidently taken the certificate. The constable went to the county clerk and made the proper affidavit that his certificate had been lost and got another.

He voted and had almost forgotten about it when yesterday, while walking around his house, he noticed a pink piece of paper protruding from under the house. He picked it out of the crack where it had been placed, and discovered his registration certificate.

Whoever got the certificate evidently didn't want the owner to vote or probably thought he would see the certificate sticking out from under the house. If it was done for a joke the constable did not relish it, as it came near causing him to lose his vote.

BIG SALE IN SEATS.

The first big rush of the present season for theater seats took place this morning at 9 o'clock when the box office at The Kentucky opened for the sale of seats to Viola Allen. There was a long line that it took a couple of hours to accommodate. When all had tickets it was found that only about ten seats were left in the balcony, and there was almost as good sale down stairs. On account of the unusual excellence of the attraction the rates are higher, but the rush indicates that Miss Allen will play to a packed house Monday night. There are plenty of good seats left downstairs, however. This will be Miss Allen's second appearance in Paducah. The first was in April, 1902, when she appeared "In the Palace of the King."

He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Dec. 1, 1904." THE NEW BRIDGE INSPECTED AGAIN

General Manager Harahan Went up Today.

The Wrecking Crew Had a Hard Time in Local Yard Last Night.

COAL STEALING HAS BEGUN

Mr. W. J. Harahan, general manager of the I. C., was in the city last night on business, leaving this morning for Tennessee river bridge, thence to Evansville.

Mr. Harahan traveled in his private car No. 1 and came in on a freight train at 8 o'clock last night from the south. He remained in Paducah over night attending to some local business, and at 7:50 this morning left for Gravel Switch on the Fulton and Louisville accommodation train.

Mr. Harahan is watching the work on Tennessee river bridge closely as is every other official in the different departments. The bridge means a big thing to the road. It means safer and faster travel, a cut-off of nearly a mile in the old route and consequently a reduction in time on the division.

Last night the local I. C. wrecking crew had a tough time working in the increasing coldness and in the face of a drizzling rain.

Two cars were derailed in the south yards and the wrecking crew was called out at 8 o'clock to work the wreck. The cars were in a very bad position and it required until 3 o'clock this morning to clear the track.

Traffic was delayed but slightly by the accident as it happened in the yards and not on the main line.

Now that cold weather has set in and every indication leads to continued cold, the negroes who roam about the railroad yard picking up coal, which has been strictly prohibited, are getting very bold and this morning as many as half a dozen pickaninnies were in cars throwing out coal.

The small children are sent into the car, it is said, because if they are caught they will get no jail sentence for larceny on account of their age. Their parents have learned enough to know that the courts will not inflict much severe punishment on the children and in this way have their coal stolen. It is really amusing to see how the negroes get the coal. The small darkies seize a lump much too heavy for them to handle, struggle to the edge of the car and with a mighty effort throw it over the side of the car. The women will be some distance away and as the coal is there, they are in no hurry to secure it. They always break it up before they put it in sacks or baskets.

Today Mr. W. J. Harahan, general manager of the I. C., Mr. H. McCourt, assistant superintendent of southern lines of the road, Superintendent A. H. Egan and Roadmaster F. L. Thompson and other officials are today at Tennessee river bridge looking over the work of the Bates-Rogers Constructing company which is putting in the new bridge piers.

The officials are rushing the work and urging the company to put forth every possible effort to finish the pier work by the first of the year. The company had most of the iron here and will be ready to put up the trestle part as soon as the pier job is finished and turned over to the road.

PADUCAHAN MARRIES.

Wickliffe, Ky., Dec. 8.—J. W. Miller, of Paducah, and Mrs. Tishen, of this city, were married Tuesday evening, November 28, at the home of the bride, on Court street.

Old houses are being moved and temporary railroad tracks laid in all directions in West Wickliffe. Judge Henry Turner has bought three of the buildings on the right-of-way and is preparing to move them himself.

The Evergreen Circle wishes to withdraw their meeting for Tuesday night and hold it Thursday afternoon instead, at their hall.

Mrs. Charles Williamson, who lies in a precarious condition at her home on North Fifth street, is reported no better today.

The Ramsey society will meet at the Broadway Methodist church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A DELINEATOR OF HEROES

(Original.)

I am a tenderfoot, or, rather, I was a tenderfoot, but there's not a man in New Mexico who cares to cross my path. The terror I inspire does not come from my bravery, my skill with the revolver or my strength. I am rather timid. I couldn't hit a barn door, with a bullet, and I am but five foot three.

Now, how do I strike terror into the citizens of this region? I will tell you. When I came out to this benighted country, with my delicately cut cameo face, my six and a half lady's kid hand and my 5A shoe, I was considered too insignificant to be noticed by the more manly inhabitants, but was subjected to continued annoyances by those who were mean enough to take advantage of my diminutive size. But one man really threatened me, and I have always excused him, for I fell in love with his daughter, and the worst of it was she preferred me and my intellectual tastes to the muscular bullet performing men of the frontier. When Bill Stanhope, Lucy's father, learned how the land lay he informed me in the extravagant language of New Mexico that if he ever caught me with Lucy he would "let enough sunshine through me to light a church."

I was riding one day through a lonely valley and on emerging from a wood saw in an open space just below me two men approaching each other on horseback. At first I supposed they were riding up to have a talk, but suddenly one of them raised a Winchester and fired at the other. Then I saw that they were Zeb Gallagher, the most dreaded desperado in New Mexico, and Bill Stanhope. I saw Stanhope's hat fall to the ground and concluded the bullet had knocked it off. He took it mighty coolly, I thought—I didn't know that he happened to be short of cartridges—rode on slowly without flinching till he got within better range, then raised his rifle, took a sure aim and fired. There was a rapid exchange of shots after this for a few seconds, neither man doing much damage.

It looked as if I had one chance in ten to be relieved of the man who stood between me and happiness, but somehow I thought of Lucy and how her father's death would break her heart and wondered what I had better do. Stanhope had come to within a hundred yards of me; Gallagher was still 500 yards away. The first thing I knew Gallagher threw away his rifle and came on the gallop for Stanhope with his revolver. I knew by this that he was out of ammunition and looked for Stanhope to kill him with a rifle bullet before he came up. But Stanhope was evidently in the same fix, for he, too, dropped his rifle and began firing with his revolver. I counted eleven shots between the two, then I saw Stanhope toss his revolver to the ground, fold his arms and sit quietly in the saddle, evidently waiting for Gallagher to finish him. Gallagher deliberately examined his revolver, and, taking five cartridges from his pocket, added them to the one left there. While he was doing so I dismounted, and, scurrying along on foot behind low bushes, darted up to Stanhope and handed him my revolver. As Gallagher was putting in the last cartridge Stanhope shot him dead.

I never shall forget the expression on Stanhope's face as he turned his eyes from his falling enemy and rested them on me, without whose timely interference he would by this time have been a dead man. He looked me all over from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet, apparently struggling up to a realization of the fact that he was indebted for his life to such an infinitesimal specimen of a man.

"Sonny," he said presently, "what did you do for?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, Mr. Stanhope, at first I hoped he'd down you; then I'd be free to marry Lucy. But when I came to consider how she would feel about it I wanted you to win."

"I didn't suppose you could talk so near like a man. You own me, since if it hadn't been for you I'd have been a dead man this minute. You can have Lucy, but what are you going to do with her? You can never live in peace among people who don't fear you. I'll tell you what we can do. I'll inform the community that it was you who killed Gallagher."

"That's an idea," I replied.

"What do you want to make of yourself?" he asked after a pause.

"I want to run my little ranch and scribble what?"

"Stories, articles, anything in the literary line."

"Well, you go home, and hereafter you'll be known as the man who killed Gallagher. I reckon you won't be pestered much after that job. And so far as Lucy is concerned, why, if she's willing to take a man who has more respect for a pen than a revolver I suppose under the altered circumstances she'll have to have her own way."

The next day when I appeared at the postoffice an opening was made for me by those waiting, and every man took off his hat. I have ever since been a terror to all the men and the admiration of all the women. My wife and her father are the only two persons who know the secret, and the former has so long seen me treated like a brave and desperate man that she has at last come to believe that I am one. But this may be on account of the many brave and desperate heroes I have drawn in my stories. My friends say that no one but a daredevil could ever depict such remarkable coolness and courage.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

Better news is coming now. There is more water in the Tennessee expected soon, as reports from there are of heavy rains, and it is possible the larger boats can soon resume.

The Henry Harley leaves this evening at 6 o'clock for Tennessee river.

The Royal made her daily trip to Paducah from Golconda with good business. The tri-weekly packet, City of Charleston, running between Paducah and Elizabethtown, is due today or tomorrow and returns Monday.

Capt. Max Sebott, of the coal company, is here from Louisville.

Capt. Holmes E. Harger has resigned as master of the A. R. Budd Coal Company's Harvester and will become a pilot for the Pittsburg Coal Company.

The Betsy Ann tore off her wheel backing out from Gaiges' Landing a few days ago and is at Natchez making repairs.

The United Coal Company has purchased the Helen White from White Bros., of Sistersville, for $28,500 and will use her in towing duty between here and Louisville.

The repairs on the towboat which was formerly the Henry DeBus have been finished. Her name has been changed to the J. T. Hatfield, in honor of Capt. "Toby" Hatfield, who purchased her from the late Capt. Alex Montgomery.

The Cairo Argus says: "Deepening the Ohio river has commenced at the wrong end. It should have been started at the mouth, where its waters join that of the Mississippi and afford navigation the entire year from Cairo to the gulf. The river may be deepened above all the way from Paducah to Pittsburg, and yet in low water periods it would be effectually closed from Mound City to above Grand Chain, so cargoes of boats could not get out to the Mississippi. The way to do the improvement work is to commence below, and first give deep water navigation from Cairo to Paducah, then extend it up the river as fast as possible. Thus the improved part of the river would be open for navigation to the Mississippi and by that to the gulf, at the lowest stages of water."

Capt. Alex. Lamont, master of the steamer India Givens, has been to Nashville, Tenn., trying to arrange for running the steamers Belle of Calhoun and India Givens in the Cumberland river this season. Both boats belong to the Calhoun Packet Company, of this city, and both have previously run in the Cumberland river. The plan is said to be to run the India Givens above Nashville and the Belle of Calhoun below. Capt. Lamont has been negotiating for an interchange of freight with the Tennessee Central railroad.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The gauge today is four-tenths, but a rise is now expected in a few days, if not sooner.

A lively steamboat rate war has been precipitated by the entrance of the Georgia Lee in the Cairo-Caruthersville trade yesterday. The reason is that Capt. G. N. Sinley has dared to enter the City of Peoria in a trade heretofore controlled exclusively by the Lee Line. The rate war will probably go on with both lines losing money until the most powerful one forces the other out.

TO LIVE HERE.

Prominent Young People Marry in Trigg County.

Mr. Cunningham is a son of the late John J. Cunningham, and is a substantial young farmer and one of the country's leading young men. Miss Mitchell is a daughter of Mr. James A. Mitchell.

We understand the young couple will move to Paducah about Christmas to make their future home.

"Do you expect to take the king's highway with Jack Mount, the highwayman?" asked Mr. Duncan. But I refused to be drawn out, and finally went away with his curiosity on tenter hooks and none the wiser.

When Waxall had shorn me and removed the powder from my hair I gathered up my ammunition and provisions and hastened back to the house. The place was dark save for a light in the library. I felt my way up the stairs and into my chamber, where I first filled bullet pouch and powderhorn, then rolled the spare ammunition and provisions into my pack and buckled the load tightly.

Now, rapidly undressing, I donned a new hunting shirt and leggings, first making sure that the fringe had not been weakened by mice, to leave me without cords should I need them. Over my shoulders I slung powderhorn and bullet pouch, slipped hatchet and hunting knife into the chout pockets and then took my rifle from the corner and unwrapped the deer hide case.

Thrice I tested the flint, pouring a little powder into the pan, and thrice the pan flashed, and the ball of vapor shot up to the ceiling. So all was ready. I lingered only to buckle my money belt under my shirt, pouch a dozen new flints and a case of wadding, then hoisted my pack to my shoulders, strapped it on the hips, blew out the candle and stole into the hallway, trailing my rifle.

I went softly through the lower hall, through the card room and tapped at the library door. It was opened without a sound.

Sir William rose as though his back, instead of mine, bore the burden, and together, without a word, we passed through the dark house and out to the porch. Dawn silvered the east, but the moon in its first quarter lay aloft in the western clouds, and a few stars looked down through a sky caked with frosted fleeces. Then I left him.

The streets of Johnstown were dark save for the rare lanterns of the watchmen, but there seemed to be many people abroad, most of them noisy and quarrelsome. Once, as I passed a tavern, many people began to rush hither and thither. A little peddler got under my feet and fell sprawling and squealing till I picked him up and set him on his legs. He was a small Hebrew man, Saul Shennel, who came peddling often to our servants, but in his terror he did not know me, and he fled madly into the tavern, with a soldier after him yowling he'd have one rebel scalp even though it were a Jewish one.

Truly, if in our village this question of tuppence worth o' tea drove men mad, what wonder Sir William and Governor Tryon should frown and shake their heads over a pinch o' snuff!

CHAPTER VI.

MY first three weeks in the woods were weeks of heaven. I ate and drank and slept in the dim wood stillness undisturbed. I waked when my guide, the sun, flamed through the forest, and I followed in his lead, resting when he hung circling in the noonday heavens, following again when he resumed the sky trail toward the west, seeking my couch when he lay down below the world's blue edge to fold him in the blanket of the night.

I had not met a soul on the trail, nor had I found any fresh signs save once, and that was the print of a sandy man's moccasin on the edge of a white strip near the headwaters of the Ohio, which is called the Allegheny, north of Fort Pitt.

This footmark disturbed me, although it was three days old and pointing north. But that signified nothing, for the man who made it had come in a canoe, yet I could find no sign that a canoe had been beached there nor, indeed, any further marks of moccasin sins, and I made moderate haste to get under cover, as I am timid about things I cannot account for.

As I slunk away from that footmark in the sand willows I found myself priming my rifle and looking behind me with all the horror of Robinson Crusoe, though I had miles of country to avoid the unknown man withal.

Early that morning, having crossed, as nearly as I could make out, the boundary between our province of New York and the province of Pennsylvania, I had approached somewhat nearer than I meant to the carrying place on the Allegheny which lies directly in the Fort Pitt trail.

Now, at midday, the sun beating the forest, I found my pack very heavy and my shirt wet with exertion, but dared not halt until I had circled around that carrying place.

It was only when at last above the trees in the east I perceived the blue peak of a mountain that I knew I was safe enough, for the peak in the east belonged to the Allegheny range, and I had steered a fine circle without losing a mile.

However, I jogged on along a runway made hard by the hoof of countless deer hoofs until I came to a thread of water curving through the moss like a sword blade on green velvet.

Now, as I sat there a sudden instinct arose in me that I had been followed—nay, not so sudden, either, for the vague idea had been slowly taking shape since I had seen that sign in the river bed among the willows.

I had absolutely no reason for believing this; the footprint was three days old, and it pointed north. Yet at the mere thought the skin on my neck began to tingle, and my nose gave little twitches. Then, moved by no impulse of my own, I swear, I lifted my pack and passed swiftly along the little brook toward the main trail.

Presently, through the willows to the right, I caught a glimpse of a shallow stream rushing noiselessly over a sand bottom, and on the other side of the stream I saw a notched tree, the Fort Pitt trail.

Now I deliberately made a string of plain foot tracks along the sandy stream, pointing toward the shallowest spot. Here I forded and made more tracks in the mud, entering the Fort Pitt trail. I ran down this trail till I came to a brier, and on the thorns of a spray which crossed the broad, hard trail I left a few strings from my fringed hunting shirt. Then I began to walk backward till I reached the spot where I had entered the trail from the sandy stream. I backed down this bank and forded the shallows; then, instead of coming out on the sand, I waded upstream to my little thread of a brook, and up that brook till I found a great log choking it, and behind this log I squatted, panting and astonished at my own performance.

Yet even now I could not find reason to blush at my timid precautions, for that feeling of being followed still haunted me. It was neither a coward's panic nor a cool man's alarm; it was something that drove me to cover my tracks.

The sun had spanned an hour's length on the blue dial of the sky, yet nothing moved in the woods. Still, strangely, I felt no impatience, no desire to elude myself for good time lost in groundless watchfulness. I sat now with my cheek on the cool, moist log, my rifle in my lap, watching the trees along the Fort Pitt trail. And as I watched I saw a man come out on the sandy bank of the stream and kneel down where my tracks crossed to the water's edge.

The man was Walter Butler. I knew him, though God alone knows how I could, for he wore the shirt of a Mohawk and banded leggings to the hips and at that distance might have been an Indian. He bore a rifle, and there was a hatchet in his bearded belt, and on his head he wore a round cap of moleskin, under which his black, coarse hair, freed from the cue, fell to his chin.

He crunched there, examining my tracks with closest attention for full a minute, then rose gracefully and followed, tracing them up to the Fort Pitt trail.

Here I saw two other men come swiftly through the trees to meet him; but, though they gesticulated violently and pointed down the stream, they spoke too low for me to hear a single whisper.

Suddenly, to my horror, a canoe shot across my line of sight and stopped suddenly, held by the setting pole in midstream. It contained a white man, who leaped on the setting pole, silently awaiting the result of the conference on the bank above.

The conference ended abruptly. I saw two of the men start south toward Fort Pitt, while Butler came hastily down to the water's edge and waded out to the canoe.

He boarded the frail craft from the bow, straddling it skilfully and working his way to his place. Then the two setting poles dashed in the sunshine, and the canoe shot out of sight.

How Butler had learned of my mission, whether he had actually learned of it or only suspected it from his dis-

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks Mother's Friend is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."—Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. Mother's Friend takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

appearance, concerned me little. These things were certain: He was Lord Dunmore's emissary, as I was the emissary of Sir William. He was bound for Cresspi's camp, as was I, and he intended to intercept me and kill me if that meant the winning of the race. Aye, he meant to kill me anyhow, for how could he ever again appear in Johnstown if I lived to bear witness to his treachery?

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. City Treasury to be Hit Hard Next Week.

Finance Committee Met Last Night—Individual Street Sweepers Talked Over.

SOME OTHER CITY NOTES

It is very likely that in a short time an ordinance will be presented in the council providing for two street sweepers such as they have in the city, whose duty it will be to be attired in simple uniform and continually go up and down the paved streets and with a wire broom keep them clean.

Everybody, especially the merchants, and those who have business down town, is disgusted with the filthy condition of the brick streets. They are never cleaned properly at the start, and in a few hours are again filthy, covered with mud and puddles of water, and ruinous to the skirt of any lady who allows it to drag as she crosses a street.

It is reported that an effort will be made when the new council goes into office to pass such an ordinance, if it is not done before, which will insure the brick streets being kept clean all the time.

Another ordinance that will be introduced will be a "cow ordinance." There has always been objection to a cow ordinance, but it was selfish opposition based on the desire of cow owners to turn their cows loose to roam the streets and invade people's yards. It is rapidly becoming evident that the demand for a cow law is imperative, and to fail to pass it will leave Paducah the laughing stock of all strangers.

On account of its location few people get to see the new city hospital at the extremity of North Fourth street unless they make a special trip for the purpose, but work is progressing well, and Contractor Wm. Karnes expects to have the building complete and turned over to the city by the last of the month. The plasterers are now at work and no pains will be spared to finish the building and have it ready.

A conference with the medical men will likely be held next week some time to ascertain what is to be done about furnishing the operating room. The move to do away with the office of city physician as it stands at present and allow the local members of the medical profession to do the hospital work proper free of cost to the city, and have the outside charity work done by two members of the medical society, one on each side of town, for $150 a year each, or a total cost of $300 a year for what is now being paid for the city physician's services, seems to be meeting with universal favor. The doctors are very much in earnest and say they are willing to do the work as outlined above both to help the city out, and for the sake of humanity.

Last night the finance committee met at the city hall and audited and approved accounts against the city.

This meeting was an important one and the matter of paying out very large sums was considered. The advancements to contractors doing street work will have to be allowed, but it will not be known how much this will amount to before the certificates come in. Another, and possibly the biggest payment to make, is the payment of the portion of December taxes to the schools. This, with the regular bills against the city, will amount high into the thousands.

Last month there were three council meetings and a total of $17,782.47 and has several thousands more to be added for today's collecting, and notwithstanding the fact that the St. Louis fair took a great deal of money away from the city, the property owners seem to have retained enough to pay their taxes and the collections for November having exceeded those of the same month in 1903 several thousand dollars.

Treasurer John Dorian has collected since December 1st, a total of $17,782.47 and has several thousands more to be added for today's collecting, and notwithstanding the fact that the St. Louis fair took a great deal of money away from the city, the property owners seem to have retained enough to pay their taxes and the collections for November having exceeded those of the same month in 1903 several thousand dollars.

Mayfield, Ky., Dec. 3.—The suffering and inconvenience occasioned by the drouth here, and in this county, have been, in a measure, relieved by the action taken by the Mayfield Water and Light Company, of which Thomas J. Dr. Goodloe was called and found that it had lacerated and torn the intestines and that the injury is perhaps fatal.

POWERS REVERSAL TUESDAY.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 3.—It was expected that the court of appeals would hand down a decision in the case of Caleb Powers yesterday and it was reported that it would be a reversal. However, the expectation was not realized and the speculation as to what the court's decision will be must wait till Tuesday at least for verification.

The writing of the opinion in the case has been left to Judge Barker. Caleb Powers is in the Louisville jail under sentence of death for conspiracy in the assassination of Senator William Goebel in January, 1900.

Stransky ware is a beautiful blue and white enamel ware imported by us from Germany. Every piece is pressed from a sheet of steel and has no seams to become leaky. It has four coats of enamel, each coat being baked in an oven of 300 degrees heat, making the enamel very hard and preventing it from scaling off.

Rochester Nickel-plated ware is made of heavy rolled copper, nickel-plated.

Easily cleaned, always bright. The finish of Rochester goods is the result of many years experience in the manufacture of nickel-plated ware.

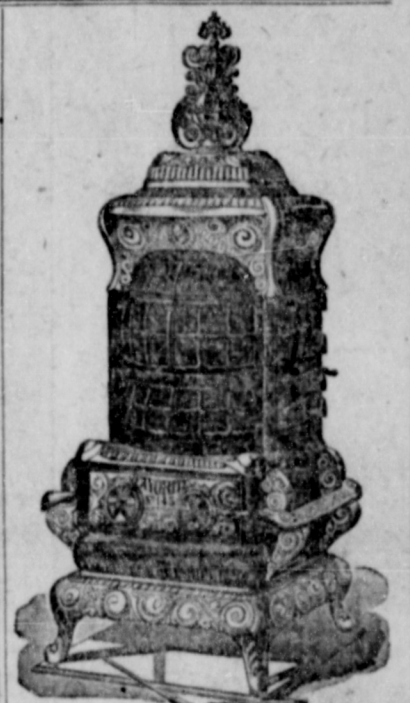

In Coffee Pots, Tea Pots, Tea Kettles, Chafing Dishes, Baking Dishes, Tea Sets, Syrup stands, Sugar bowls, etc.

You should see our line of carvers. The prices we are offering this week make them exceptionally attractive.

As an incentive for your visit here this week we offer:

$1.50 Carvers $1.19.
Knife, Fork and Steel, Stag handle, made of the best English steel, nicely finished. This week only and while they last.

Heaters

Our line of heaters is the most attractive we have ever shown and our prices this week will certainly interest you.

We carry such makes as the "Favorite," Base Burners, "Moore's," Air Tight and other high-grade stoves that are not only durable and attractive, but are great savers of fuel. Our line is too large to quote prices, but an inspection of our heaters will convince you that this is the place to buy heaters.
